OPINIONS EXPRESSED.

How the President's Message is Received.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The opinions expressed upon the President's message are unusually similar. Republicans very generally unite in a single opinion, and Democrats are also unanimous in theirs. It is regarded as only an ordinary paper, without any striking features. The financial portions of it are entirely overshadowed by Secretary Sherman's utterances in his annual report, and, except the discussion of the Southern question, there is very little else in the message to comment upon.
The two Republican Senators from the South, Kellogg and Bruce, who were in their seats, said they were gratified at the President's attitude, and expected that he would do as much as he promised, but they did not think the language in which he expressed himself was as forcible as would have come, under the same circumstances, from General Grant.
They express gratification at the fact that the President at least sees that he has been deceived by Southern Democrats, but think he can go a step farther and demand a promise not to be deceived again.
A Republican Congressman called on the President and congratulated him upon the message and the prospect of future cordial relations with his party. "Yes," replied the President, "things are different now than when Congress adjourned. It is much pleasanter to be in harmony with the party you belong with than to be continually censured by some of its leaders," and he repeated what he had said before, that there need hereafter be no difference between himself and the rest of the Republicans.

THE NATION.

Its Relations with the Governments of the Earth.

The Topics Discussed by the President

In His Second Annual Message to the Two Houses of Congress.

Fellow Citizens of the Senate and House of Representatives:
Our heartfelt gratitude is due to the Divine Being, who holds in His hands the destinies of nations, for the continued benedictions during the last year of countless blessings upon our country.
We are at peace with all other nations.
Our public credit has greatly improved, and, perhaps, now stronger than ever before. Abundant harvests have rewarded the labors of those who till the soil, our manufacturing industries are reviving, and it is believed that general prosperity, which has been so long anxiously looked for, is at last within our reach.

THE YELLOW FEVER.
The enjoyment of health by our people generally has, however, been interrupted, during the past season, by the prevalence of a fatal pestilence, the yellow fever, in some portions of the Southern States, creating an emergency which called for prompt and extraordinary measures of relief. The disease appeared as an epidemic at New Orleans and at other places on the Lower Mississippi soon after midsummer.
It was rapidly spread by fugitives from the infected cities and towns, and did not disappear until early in November. The States of Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee have suffered severely. About 100,000 cases are believed to have occurred, of which about 20,000, according to intelligent estimates, proved fatal. It is impossible to estimate with any approach to accuracy the loss to the country occasioned by this epidemic. It is to be reckoned by the hundred millions of dollars. The suffering and distress that resulted excited the deepest sympathy in all parts of the Union.
Physicians and nurses hastened from every quarter to the assistance of the afflicted communities. Voluntary contributions of money and supplies, in every needed form, were speedily and generously furnished.
The Government was able to respond in some measure to the call for help, by providing tents, medicines, and food for the sick and destitute, the requisite direction for the purpose being given in the confident expectation that this action of the Executive would receive the sanction of Congress. About 1,800 tents, and rations of the value of about $25,000, were sent to cities and towns which applied for them, full details of which will be furnished to Congress by the proper department.

The fearful spread of this pestilence has awakened a very general public sentiment in favor of national sanitary administration, which shall not only control quarantine, but have the sanitary supervision of international commerce in times of epidemic, and hold an advisory relation to the State and municipal health authorities, with power to deal with whatever endangers the public health, and which the municipal and State authorities are unable to regulate. The National Quarantine act, approved April 29, 1878, which was passed too late in the last session of Congress to provide the means for carrying it into practical operation during the past season, is a step in the direction here indicated. In view of the necessity for the most effective measures, by quarantine and otherwise, for the protection of our seaports, and the country generally, from this and other epidemics, it is recommended that Congress give to the whole subject early and careful consideration.

THE SOUTH.

The permanent pacification of the country, the complete protection of all citizens in every civil and political right continues to be of paramount interest with the great body of our people. Every step in this direction is welcomed with public approval, and every interruption of steady and uniform progress to the desired consummation awakens general uneasiness and widespread condemnation. The results of the elections have furnished a direct and trustworthy test of the advance thus far made in the practical establishment of the right of suffrage, secured by the constitution to the liberated race in the Southern States. All disturbing influences, real or imaginary, had been removed from all of these States.

The three constitutional amendments, which conferred freedom and equality of civil and political rights on the colored people of the South, were adopted by the concurrent action of the great body of good citizens who maintained the authority of the national Government and the integrity and perpetuity of the Union at such a cost of treasure and life, as a wise and necessary embodiment in the organic law of the just results of a just war. The people of the United States, holding States accepted these results, and gave, in every practicable form, assurance that the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, and laws passed in pursuance thereof, should, in good faith, be enforced, rigidly and im-partially, in letter and spirit, to the end that the humblest citizen, without distinction of race or color, should, under the receive full and equal protection in person and property and in political rights and privileges. By these constitutional amendments, the Southern section of the Union obtained a large increase of political power in Congress and in the Electoral College, and the country justly expected that elections would proceed as the enfranch-chised race, upon the same circumstances of legal and constitutional freedom and protection which obtained in all the other States of the Union. The friends of law and order looked forward to the conduct of these elections, as offering to the general judgment of the country an important test of the treaty and to the terms of the question respecting the award of suffrage my duty to tender the sum named, within the year fixed by the treaty, accompanied by a notice of the grounds of the payment, and a protest against any other construction of the same. The correspondence upon the subject will be laid before you.

The Spanish Government has officially announced the termination of the succession in Cuba, and the restoration of peace throughout that island. Confident expectations are expressed of a revival of trade and prosperity which it is earnestly hoped may prove well founded. Numerous claims of American citizens for relief for injuries or restoration of property, have been among the incidents of the long-continued hostilities. Some of these claims are in process of adjustment by Spain, and the others promised early and careful consideration.
The treaty made with Italy, in regard to reciprocal consular privileges, has been duly ratified and proclaimed.
No questions of grave importance have arisen with any other of the European powers.

The Japanese Government has been deserving of a revision of such parts of its treaties with foreign powers as relate to commerce, and, it is understood, has addressed to each of the treaty powers a request to open negotiations with that view.

The United States Government has been inclined to regard the matter favorably.
Whatever restrictions upon trade with Japan are imposed, and I am unwilling to forego a renewed appeal to the Legislature, the courts, the executive authorities, and the people of the States where these wrong have been perpetrated, to give their assistance toward bringing to justice the offenders and prevent a repetition of the crimes. No means within my power will be spared to obtain a full and thorough investigation of the facts, and to secure the conviction and just punishment of the guilty.

It is to be observed that the principal appropriation made for the Department of Justice at the last session contained the following clause: "And for defraying the expenses of the Department of Justice, in the enforcement of the act approved February 28, 1871, entitled, 'An act to amend an act approved May 30, 1870, entitled an act to enforce the rights of the citizens of the United States to vote in the several States of the Union, and for other purposes,' or any acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto.'"
It is the opinion of the Attorney General that the expenses of these proceedings will largely exceed the amount which was thus provided, and I rely confidently upon Congress to make adequate appropriations to enable the Executive Department to enforce the laws.

CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS.

Respectfully urge upon your attention that the Congressional elections, in every district, in a very important sense, are justly a matter of political interest and concern throughout the whole country.
Each State, every political party, is entitled to the share of power which is conferred by the legal and constitutional suffrage. It is the right of every citizen, possessing the qualifications prescribed by law, to cast one unimpaired ballot, and to have his ballot honestly counted. So long as the exercise of this power and the enjoyment of this right are common and equal, practically as well as formally, no objection to the results of the suffrage will be accorded loyally and cheerfully, and all the departments of Government, however urgent or weighty, will ever displace the zeal of our people in defense of the primary rights of citizenship. They understand that the protection of liberty requires the maintenance, in full vigor, of the manly method of free speech, free press, free suffrage, and will sustain the full authority of Government to enforce the laws which are framed to preserve these inestimable rights. The material progress and welfare of the States depend on the protection afforded to their citizens. There can be no peace without such protection afforded to their persons, no prosperity without such protection to their property, and no deeply interested in the growth and prosperity of all its parts.

While the country has not yet reached complete unity of feeling and reciprocal confidence between the communities so late and seriously estranged, I feel an absolute assurance that the tendencies are in such direction, and with increasing force, that the power of public opinion will overcome all political prejudices, and all sectional or State attachments, in demanding that all over our wide territory the name and character of citizen of the United States shall mean one and the same thing, and carry with them their unchallenged security and respect.

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

Our relations with other countries continue peaceful. Our neutrality in contests between foreign Powers has been maintained, and respect for the rights of commerce and navigation has been preserved.
The Universal Exposition held at Paris during the past summer has been attended by large numbers of our citizens. The brief period allowed for the preparation and arrangement of the contributions of our citizens to this great Exposition was well employed in energetic and judicious efforts to overcome this disadvantage.
These efforts, and the reports of the commissioner General, were remarkably successful, and the exhibition of the products of American industry was creditable and gratifying in scope and character. The reports of the United States Commissioners, giving its results in detail, will be duly laid before you. Our participation in this international competition for the favor and the trade of the world has been a most productive and important result, in promoting intercourse, friendship and commerce with other nations.

In accordance with the provisions of the act of February 28, 1878, three Commissioners were appointed to an international conference on the subject of adopting a common ratio between gold and silver, for the purpose of establishing an international unit of bimetallic money, and securing fixity of relative value between those metals.
Invitations were addressed to the various Governments which had expressed a willingness to participate in its deliberations.
The conference held its meetings in Paris, August last. The reports of the Commissioners, herewith submitted, will show its results. No common ratio between gold and silver could be agreed upon by the conference. The general conclusion was reached that it is necessary to maintain in the world the monetary functions of silver as well as of gold, leaving the selection of the use of one or the other of these two metals, or of both, to be made by each State.

Congress having appropriated at its last session the sum of $5,000,000 to pay the award of the Joint Commission at Halifax, if, after correspondence with the British Government, on the subject of the conformity of the award to the requirements of the treaty and to the terms of the question thereby submitted to the Commission, the President shall deem it his duty to make the payment, communications on these points were addressed to the British Government through the legation of the United States in London. Failing to obtain the concurrence of the British Government in the views of this Government respecting the award of suffrage, I deem my duty to tender the sum named, within
and a protest against any other construc-

powers.

time within one year after their issue into the 4 per cent, bonds authorized by the Refunding act, and to be issued only in exchange for United States notes sent to the Treasury by mail or otherwise. Such a provision of law, supported by suitable regulations, would enable any person readily, without cost or risk, to convert his money into an interest-bearing security of the United States, and the money so received could be applied to the redemption of 6 per cent bonds.

The coinage of gold during the last fiscal year was $3,739,980. The coinage of silver dollars, under the act passed February 28, 1878, amounted on the 22d of November, 1878, to $10,814,550, of which amount $4,984,947 are in circulation, and the balance, $14,829,603 is still in the possession of the Government.
With views unchanged with regard to the act under which the coinage of silver proceeds, it has been the purpose of the Secretary faithfully to execute the law, and to afford a fair trial to the measure.

In the present financial condition of the country, I am persuaded that the welfare of legitimate business and industry of every description will be best promoted by ab-staining from all attempts to make radical changes in the existing financial legislation.
Let it be understood that during the coming year the business of the country will be undisturbed by Governmental interference with the laws affecting it, and we may confidently expect that the resumption of specie payments, which will take place at the appointed time, will be successfully and easily maintained, and that it will be followed by a healthful and endurable revival of business prosperity.

Let the healing influence of time, the inherent energies of our people, and the boundless resources of our country, have a fair opportunity, and relief from present difficulties will surely follow.

MILITARY AFFAIRS.

The report of the Secretary of War shows that the army has been well and economically supplied, that our small force has been actively employed, and has faithfully performed all the service required of it. The morale of the army has improved, and the number of casualties has materially decreased during the year.

The Secretary recommends—1. That a pension be granted to the widow of the late Lieutenant Henry H. Benner, Eighteenth Infantry, who lost his life by yellow fever while in command of the steamer J. M. Chambers, sent with supplies for the relief of sufferers in the South from the yellow fever.

2. The establishment of the annuity scheme for the benefit of the heirs of deceased officers, as suggested by the Paymaster General.

3. The adoption by Congress of a plan for the publication of the records of the War of the Rebellion, now being prepared for publication, and the expenses of the same to be paid by the Government.

4. The increase of the extra per diem of soldier-teachers employed in the post-schools, and liberal appropriations for the erection of buildings for schools and libraries at the different posts.

5. The repeal or amendment of the act of June 18, 1873, forbidding the "use of the army as a posse comitatus, or otherwise, for the purpose of executing the laws, except in such cases and under such circumstances as may be expressly authorized by the constitution or by act of Congress."

6. The passage of a joint resolution of Congress legalizing the issue of rations, tents and medicines which were made for the relief of sufferers from the yellow fever.

7. That provision be made for the erection of a fire-proof building for the preservation of certain valuable records, now constantly exposed to destruction by fire.

NAVAL AFFAIRS.

The report of the Secretary of the Navy shows that the navy has improved during the last fiscal year. Work has been done on seventy-five vessels, ten of which have been thoroughly repaired, and made ready for sea. Two others are in rapid progress of repair. The report of the Secretary occupation and tillage of the soil. The efforts of the Department of Agriculture to stimulate old and introduce new agricultural industries, to improve the quality and increase the quantity of our products, to determine the value of old or establish the importance of the new methods of culture, are worthy of your careful and favorable consideration, and assistance by such appropriations of money and enlargement of facilities as may seem to be demanded by the present favorable conditions for the growth and rapid development of this important interest.

The abuse of animals in transit is widely attracting public attention. A national convention of societies specially interested in the subject has recently met at Baltimore, and the facts developed, both in regard to cruelties upon the public health, would seem to demand the careful consideration of Congress, and the enactment of more efficient laws for the prevention of these abuses.

EDUCATION.

The report of the Commissioner of the Bureau of Education shows very gratifying progress throughout the country, in all the interests committed to the care of this important office. The report is especially encouraging with respect to the extension of the advantages of the common school system in sections of the country where the general enjoyment of the privilege of free schools is not yet attained.

To education more than to any other agency we are to look as the resources for the advancement of the people in the requisite knowledge and appreciation of their rights and responsibilities as citizens, and I desire to repeat the suggestion contained in my former message in behalf of the enactment of appropriate measures by Congress for the purpose of supplementing with national aid, the local systems of education in the several States.

Adequate accommodations for the great library, which is overgrowing the capacity of the rooms now occupied at the Capitol, should be provided without further delay. This invaluable collection of books, manuscripts and illustrative art, has grown to such proportions, in connection with the copyright system of the country, as to demand the prompt and careful attention of Congress to save it from injury in its present crowded and insufficient quarters. As this library is a national treasure, and as it must, from the nature of the case, increase even more rapidly in the future than in the past, it cannot be doubted that the people will sanction any wise expenditure to preserve it and to enlarge its usefulness.

The appeal of the Regents of the Smithsonian Institution for the means to organize, exhibit and make available for the public benefit the articles now stored away belonging to the National Museum, I heartily recommend to your favorable consideration.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The attention of Congress is again invited to the condition of the river front of the city of Washington. It is a matter of vital importance to the health of the residents of the national capital, both temporary and permanent, that the low lands in front of the city, now subject to tidal overflow, should be reclaimed. In their present condition, these flats obstruct the drainage of the city, and are a dangerous source of malarial poison. The reclamation will improve the navigation of the river, by restricting and consequently deepening its channel, and is also of importance, when considered in connection with the extension of the public ground, and the enlargement of the park west and south of the Washington Monument. The report of Board of Survey, heretofore ordered by act of Congress, on the improvement of the harbor of Washington and Georgetown, is respectfully recommended to consideration.

The report of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia presents a detailed statement of the affairs of the District.

The relative expenditures by the United States and the District for local purposes is contrasted, showing that the expenditures by the people of the District greatly exceed those of the General Government. The exhibit is made in connection with estimates for the requisite repair of the defective pavements and sewers of the city, which is a work of immediate necessity, and in the same connection, a plan is presented for the permanent funding of the outstanding securities of the District.

The benevolent, reformatory, and penal institutions of the District are all entitled to the favorable attention of Congress. The Reform School needs additional buildings and teachers. Appropriations which will place all of these institutions in a condition to become models of usefulness and beneficence, will be regarded by the country as liberality wisely bestowed.

The Commissioners, with evident justice, request attention to the discrimination made by Congress against the District in the donation of land for the support of the public schools, and ask that the same liberality that has been shown to the inhabitants of the various States and Territories of the United States, may be extended to the District of Columbia.

The Commissioners also invite attention to the damage inflicted upon public and private interests by the present location of the depots and switching-tracks of the several railroads entering the city, and ask for legislation looking to their removal. The recommendations and suggestions contained in the report will, I trust, receive the careful consideration of Congress.

Sufficient time has, perhaps, not elapsed since the reorganization of the government of the District, under the recent legislation of Congress, for the expression of a confident opinion as to its successful operation; but the practical results already attained are so satisfactory that the friends of the new government may well urge upon Congress the wisdom of its continuance, without essential modification, until, by actual experience its advantages and defects may be more fully ascertained.
